

YURI STOYANOV

Yuri Stoyanov obtained his PhD from the University of London (The Warburg Institute). Fellow of the Royal Asiatic Society, he is currently based at the Department of the Near and Middle East, School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London and is currently Senior Associate Fellow at the Albright Institute of Archaeological Research, Jerusalem. Between 2006 and 2008 he was Director of the Kenyon Institute, Jerusalem (formerly the British School of Archaeology in Jerusalem). He has lectured and published widely on various facets of the interaction between Zoroastrianism, Judaism, Christianity and Islam and their significance for certain far-reaching contemporary religio-political attitudes and developments.

Stoyanov's English-language publications include the books: The Hidden Tradition in Europe (Penguin, London, 1994), The Other God (Yale UP, London & New York, 2000), Defenders and Enemies of the True Cross (Austrian Academy of Sciences Press, Vienna, 2011); he has also co-edited Christian Dualist Heresies in the Byzantine World c.650-c.1450 (Manchester UP, Manchester & New York, 1998).

Since 2000 Stoyanov has worked on a number of research projects and organized several international initiatives and workshops (supported by British and Italian academic institutions and involving wide-ranging field work) focused on the status of religious sites and cultural/archaeological reserve areas as well as religious minorities in the Balkans, the Eastern Mediterranean, the Middle East, and Central Asia.
